

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A protective circuit for a supersonic humidifier includes a compare circuit to obtain working voltage at two terminals of an oscillator to decide whether the humidifier is to be 5 continued to operate or stopped so as to protect it from burning up. The protective circuit does not utilize a vibration needle, a float, a magnetic switch and a HALL IC used in conventional humidifiers.